To whom it may concern,

I am writing today to express my support for the Interparliamentary Taskforce on Human Trafficking (ITHT).

Human trafficking is borderless, modern-day slavery that continues to exploit millions of innocent lives in the darkest of alleys in every corner of the world. The collaborative action and expertise of world leaders, policy experts, and survivors are critical to winning the battle against this evil criminal institution. I commend the visionary leadership of Anne Basham at the Interparliamentary Taskforce on Human Trafficking (ITHT) for rallying the global community in the fight against human trafficking.

The Interparliamentary Taskforce on Human Trafficking (ITHT)'s steadfast and victim-centered support for survivors, law enforcement, and legislators in the international community plays a critical role to solve this major humanitarian crisis. I reiterate my appreciation for the outstanding job the Interparliamentary Taskforce on Human Trafficking (ITHT) continues to accomplish.

As a member of the United States Congress and the Interparliamentary Taskforce on Human Trafficking (ITHT), I am proud to represent America's unwavering resolve to eradicate human trafficking. I look forward to working closely with international partners to support survivors, empower law enforcement, and promote innovative legislation to write the final chapters on this heinous crime.

Sincerely,
